

METHODS AND DEVICES FOR ABLATION

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An ablating device has a cover which holds an interface material such as a gel. The cover contains the interface material during initial placement of the device. The ablating device may also have a removable tip or a membrane filled with fluid. In still another aspect, the ablating device may be submerged in liquid during operation.

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176